

Australian Mammalogy

Contents

Volume 32

Issue 2

2010

A new koala (Marsupialia : Phascolarctidae) from the late Oligocene Etadunna Formation, Lake Eyre Basin, South Australia

Neville S. Pledge 79–86

Natural Resource Management implications of the pre-European non-volant mammal fauna of the southern tip of Eyre Peninsula, South Australia

Matthew C. McDowell and Graham C. Medlin 87–93

Gross renal morphology of the numbat (Myrmecobius fasciatus) (Marsupialia : Myrmecobiidae)

C. E. Cooper and P. C. Withers 95–97

The decline of a large yellow-footed rock-wallaby (Petrogale xanthopus) colony following a pulse of resource abundance

Andy Sharp and Hamish McCallum 99–107

The behaviour and environmental enrichment of captive mahogany gliders (Petaurus gracilis)

Tracy L. Muller, Traza J. Ensabella, Rosie Booth, Stephen D. Johnston

and Clive J. C. Phillips 109–116

Prevalence of threatened native species in canid scats from coastal and near-coastal landscapes in south-eastern Australia

Andrew W. Claridge, Douglas J. Mills and Simon C. Barry 117–126

Two new species of Antechinus Macleay (Dasyuridae : Marsupialia) from mid-Pleistocene cave deposits in eastern central Queensland

Jonathan Cramb and Scott Hocknull 127–144

The diet of some New Guinean dasyurid marsupials

G. L. Grosse, P. A. Woolley and J. I. Menzies 145–155

High koala mortality associated with low browse moisture in tropical environments

Irene Delma Clifton 157–159

Observations of a large colony of bats roosting in a church

Ken J. Sanderson, Gillian Napier and Greg R. Johnston 161–163

Detection of medium-sized ground-dwelling mammals using infrared digital cameras:
an alternative way forward?

Andrew W. Claridge, David J. Paull and Simon C. Barry 165–171

Do preservation methods affect the identification of dietary components from faecal samples? A case study using a mycophagous marsupial

Kerry Zosky, Kate Bryant, Michael Calver and Adrian Wayne 173–176

Direct male parental care observed in wild sugar gliders

Ross L. Goldingay 177–178

Observation of reproductive strategies of captive kultarrs (Antechinomys laniger)

Hayley J. Stannard and Julie M. Old 179–182

Variation in the home-range size of the squirrel glider (Petaurus norfolcensis)

Ross L. Goldingay, David J. Sharpe and Matt D. J. Dobson 183–188

continued on next page

Seasonal anoestrus in western grey kangaroos (Macropus fuliginosus ocydromus)
in south-western Australia
Chris Mayberry, Shane K. Maloney, Peter Mawson and Roberta Bencini 189–196

Research Notes

Estimating western ringtail possum (Pseudocheirus occidentalis) density using distance sampling
G. R. Finlayson, A. N. Diment, P. Mitrovski, G. G. Thompson and S. A. Thompson 197–200

A novel observation of dingoes (Canis lupus dingo) attacking a swimming eastern grey kangaroo
(Macropus giganteus)
Brad V. Purcell 201–204

Bronchogenic carcinoma in a male rock wallaby (Petrogale lateralis lateralis)
Nicole Willers, Roy Butler, Chris Mayberry and Peter Mawson 205–206

Skin and bone: observations of dingo scavenging during a chronic food shortage
Benjamin L. Allen 207–208