RECENT ADVANCES IN ANIMAL NUTRITION – AUSTRALIA 2019

UNIVERSITY OF NEW ENGLAND, 23–25 OCTOBER 2019

Foreword i

The future protein decade: perspectives on global pressure to agriculture

Julian McGill, Amy Moss, Robert Swick, David Jackson and Martin Todd 1951–1956

Overcoming nature's paradox in skeletal muscle to optimise animal production

Gordon S. Lynch and René Koopman 1957–1969

Integration of energy and protein transactions in the body to build new tools for predicting performance and body composition of ruminants

V. H. Oddy, H. C. Dougherty and J. W. Oltjen 1970–1979

Dietary protein reduction improves the energetic and amino acid efficiency in lactating sows

Sai Zhang and Nathalie L. Trottier 1980–1990

Do more mechanistic models increase accuracy of prediction of metabolisable protein supply in ruminants?

Michael S. Allen 1991–1998

The potential of silage lactic acid bacteria-derived nano-selenium as a dietary supplement in sheep

M. R. F. Lee, H. R. Fleming, F. Whittington, C. Hodgson, P. T. Suraj and D. R. Davies 1999–2009

Feeding whole grain and phytase to meat chickens: recent Australian experience

Amy F. Moss, Sonia Yun Liu and Peter H. Selle 2010–2014

Associations between gastrointestinal-tract function and the stress response after weaning in pigs

J. R. Pluske, D. W. Miller, S. O. Sterndale and D. L. Turpin 2015–2022

Maximising the benefits of pelleting diets for modern broilers

M. Reza Abdollahi, Faegheh Zaefarian and Velmurugu Ravindran 2023–2028

Insect protein in animal nutrition

J. de Souza-Vilela, N. R. Andrew and I. Ruhnke 2029–2036

Insects: a novel animal-feed protein source for the Australian market

K. DiGiacomo, H. Akit and B. J. Leury 2037–2045

Free-range laying hens: using technology to show the dynamics and impact of hen movement

I. Ruhnke, J. Boshoff, I. V. Cristiani, D. Schneider, M. Welch, T. Z. Sibanda and M. Kolakshyapati 2046–2056

Dietary nitrogen utilisation and prediction of amino acid requirements in equids

Nathalie L. Trottier and Luis O. Tedeschi 2057–2068

Nutritional implications of feeding reduced-protein diets to meat chickens

M. Hilliar and R. A. Swick 2069–2081

Recent advances to improve nitrogen efficiency of grain-finishing cattle in North American and Australian feedlots

Frances Cowley, Jenny Jennings, Andy Cole and Karen Beauchemin 2082–2092

Nitrogen recycling and feed efficiency of cattle fed protein-restricted diets

L. F. P. Silva, R. M. Dixon and D. F. A. Costa 2093–2107
