

Inferred BSi content(%) in sediments from three sub-tropical estuaries in eastern Australia clearly indicate that values from Moreton Bay are atypically low, thus supporting the suggestion that diatom dissolution has occurred at this site. BR and RR both show excellent diatom preservation (Logan et al. accepted; Logan and Taffs, unpublished).