

Supplementary material

Traditional ecological knowledge, shifting baselines, and conservation of Fijian molluscs

Karen Bao^A and Joshua Drew^{A,B}

^ADepartment of Ecology, Evolution and Environmental Biology (EEEEB), Columbia University, 1200 Amsterdam Ave, New York, NY 10027, USA.

^BCorresponding author. Email: j.drew@columbia.edu

General Questions:
Which species do you fish for?
How often do you collect shellfish?
How many years have you lived in Nagigi or other places?
How many years have you fished in Nagigi or other places?
What changes have you noticed over time in the reef(s)?
Where do you fish, how do you get there, and do you dive deep for shellfish?
Do you freedive for shellfish?

For each species named:
Where do you fish for it?
Has it gotten harder or easier?
How has the population of [species] changed?
Why do you think that is?
Do many other people fish for [species] or are you one of the only people?
What about 5, 10, 20 years ago?
Do you fish to eat or to sell?
What are government regulations for fishing for [species]?
Do you believe people follow these regulations?