

Contents

Volume 44 Issue 4 2022

RESEARCH PAPERS

- In search of sustainable livestock management in the Dry Chaco: effect of different shrub-removal practices on vegetation
L. M. Guzmán, P. E. Villagra, R. E. Quiroga, D. I. Pereyra, M. E. Pelliza, A. R. Ricarte and L. J. Blanco 193
- Effects of international boundary making on pastoralists transboundary environmental resource use in the Ethiopia–Kenya borderland
Girma Defere, Messay Mulugeta and Teferi Tolera 203
- Shrubs alter alpha and beta diversity of soil fauna in a semiarid grassland
Haining Gao, Caixia Li, Yang Jiao, Yong Zhang and Qi Feng 213
- Do regenerative grazing management practices improve vegetation and soil health in grazed rangelands? Preliminary insights from a space-for-time study in the Great Barrier Reef catchments, Australia
Rebecca Bartley, Brett N. Abbott, Afshin Ghahramani, Aram Ali, Rod Kerr, Christian H. Roth and Anne Kinsey-Henderson 221
- Resource partitioning between Caucasian chamois and domestic sheep in mountain pastures of the eastern Caucasus, Dagestan, Russia
Magomedrasul Magomedov and Elmar Babaev 247

Cover photograph: Location of woodland in the province of La Rioja, Argentina. The photo shows the vegetation of the less degraded sites in the region (conserved woodland) (Courtesy of L. M. Guzmán).