

258 EditorialsFrom the Editor

- 258 An eclectic issue
Felicity Goodyear-Smith

Guest Editorials

- 260 Understanding the prevalence of long-term conditions
Mike Pringle
- 261 I suggest you take up some exercise like running
Martin Dawes

262 Original Scientific PapersQuantitative Research

- 262 Can the prevalence of diagnosed diabetes be estimated from linked national health records? The validity of a method applied in New Zealand
Simon Thornley, Craig Wright, Roger Marshall, Gary Jackson, Paul Drury, Susan Wells, James Smith, Wing Cheuk Chan, Romana Pylypchuk, Rod Jackson
- 269 Randomised controlled trial of informal team sports for cardiorespiratory fitness and health benefit in Pacific adults
Mark Biddle, Grace Vincent, Alana McCambridge, Gabrielle Britton, Ofa Dewes, C Raina Elley, Simon Moyes, Johann Edge
- 278 Assessing the effectiveness of cold chain management for childhood vaccines
Nikki Turner, Athene Laws, Loretta Roberts
- 283 Tax as a motivating factor to make a quit attempt from smoking: a study before and after the April 2010 tax increase
Kirsty MacFarlane, Janine Paynter, Bruce Arroll, Ben Youdan

Qualitative Research

- 289 Nurses' perceptions of nurse-led healthy lifestyle clinics
Bob Marshall, Sue Floyd, Rachel Forrest
- 298 Clinical teachers working in primary care: what would they like changed in the medical school?
Susan Hawken, Marcus Henning, Ralph Pinnock, Boaz Shulruf, Warwick Bagg

Short Report

- 307 Patient Dashboard: the use of a colour-coded computerised clinical reminder in Whanganui regional general practices
John McMenamin, Rick Nicholson, Ken Leech

Improving Performance

- 311 A Pacific Immersion Programme—is it useful in teaching Pacific Health to future doctors in New Zealand?
Faafetai Sopoaga

317 Back to Back

- 317 Saturated fat has been unfairly demonised
Yes: Helen Petousis-Harris; No: C Murray Skeaff and Rod Jackson

322 Continuing Professional Development

- 322 Potion or Poison? Aloe vera
Felicity Goodyear-Smith
- 323 Nuggets of Knowledge: Allopurinol—dose according to effect, not renal function
Linda Bryant
- 324 String of PEARLS about myocardial infarction
- 324 Cochrane Corner: Pronation may be more effective than supination in correcting subluxed radial head
Bruce Arroll
- 325 Pounamu: e Runanga o Te Rarawa Rheumatic Fever Reduction Programme—Kaitaia
Lance O'Sullivan
- 327 Vaikoloa: Alliance Health+ Trust
Ti'a Kirkpatrick Mariner

330 Ethics

- 329 A tale of two deaths
Stephen Main

331 Viewpoint

- 331 Tranexamic acid—a recipe for saving lives in traumatic bleeding
Ian Roberts

332 Letters to the Editor334 Gems of New Zealand Primary Health Care Research*336 About the Journal of Primary Health Care