

Australian Journal of

Experimental Agriculture

Contents Volume 47, Issue 3, 2007, 231–377

Environmental Management Systems in Agriculture – Diversity and Innovation

Foreword.

E. J. Seymour 231–232

Adoption of environmental assurance in pastoral industry supply chains – market failure and beyond.

L. I. Pahl 233–244

The Environmental Stewardship System (ESS): a generic system for assuring rural environmental performance.

M. Andrew, T. Jarvis, B. Howard, G. McLeod, S. Robinson, R. Standen, D. Toohey and A. Williams 245–259

Stakeholder expectations for environmental assurance in agriculture: lessons from the pastoral industry.

L. I. Pahl and R. Sharp 260–272

Voluntary adoption of Environmental Management Systems in the Australian wine and grape industry depends on understanding stakeholder objectives and drivers.

E. Tee, A.-M. Boland and A. Medhurst 273–283

EMS in the pastoral industries of western Queensland: from customisation to implementation.

N. M. Sallur, L. Z. Weier, L. I. Pahl, S. B. Holmes and C. S. Yeoman 284–293

Environmental Management Systems in the Australian lamb industry: challenges and opportunities for family farms.

K.-J. Huhn, E. J. Seymour and A. M. Ridley 294–302

Benefits, threats and getting started with Environmental Management Systems: views of primary producers and catchment managers in Victoria, Australia.

E. J. Seymour 303–311

Using the EMS process as an integrative farm management tool.

G. Carruthers 312–324

Improving environmental management in Australian horticulture: critical factors for the implementation of EMS.

W. E. Hopkins, W. J. Ashcroft and A.-M. Boland 325–332

Assessing the role of a four-stage approach for improving the compatibility of Environmental Management Systems and Quality Assurance.

E. J. Seymour, A. M. Ridley and J. Noonan 333–345

Environmental motivation and monitoring by landholders in north-east Victoria: fact, fantasy and future implications for catchment management.

C. L. Reid and A. M. Ridley 346–355

Priority environmental issues for monitoring – mismatch between farmers and catchment management perspectives.

A. M. Ridley, E. J. Seymour, K.-J. Huhn and G. Park 356–366

Preparing Australian broadacre agriculture for environmental scrutiny using Environmental Management Systems: implications for extension services.

A. M. Ridley 367–377

Front cover: Clockwise from top: Lamb EMS group at Oaklands, NSW (photographed by Olivia Kemp, DPI Rutherglen); Gippsland dairy herd (photographed by Cindy Nielsen, DPI Ellinbank); grain harvesting at Buraja, NSW (photographed by Alastair Robb, EMS primary producer); laneway on DPI Ellinbank farm (photographed by Cindy Nielsen, DPI Ellinbank – also on back cover).