MEAT STANDARDS AUSTRALIA

Evolution of the Meat Standards Australia (MSA) beef grading system

R. Polkinghorne, J. M. Thompson, R. Watson, A. Gee and M. Porter 1351–1359

Consumer assessment of eating quality – development of protocols for Meat Standards Australia (MSA) testing

R. Watson, A. Gee, R. Polkinghorne and M. Porter 1360–1367

Development of the Meat Standards Australia (MSA) prediction model for beef palatability

R. Watson, R. Polkinghorne and J. M. Thompson 1368–1379

Beef quality grades as determined by Korean and Australian consumers

J. M. Thompson, R. Polkinghorne, I. H. Hwang, A. M. Gee, S. H. Cho, B. Y. Park and J. M. Lee 1380–1386

Demographic and design effects on beef sensory scores given by Korean and Australian consumers

I. H. Hwang, R. Polkinghorne, J. M. Lee and J. M. Thompson 1387–1395

Effect of carcass suspension and cooking method on the palatability of three beef muscles as assessed by Korean and Australian consumers

B. Y. Park, I. H. Hwang, S. H. Cho, Y. M. Yoo, J. H. Kim, J. M. Lee, R. Polkinghorne and J. M. Thompson 1396–1404

Effects of hormonal growth promotants (HGP) on growth, carcass characteristics, the palatability of different muscles in the beef carcass and their interaction with aging

J. M. Thompson, B. M. McIntyre, G. D. Tudor, D. W. Pethick, R. Polkinghorne and R. Watson 1405–1414

Effect of hormonal growth promotants on palatability and carcass traits of various muscles from steer and heifer carcasses from a Bos indicus–Bos taurus composite cross

R. Watson, R. Polkinghorne, A. Gee, M. Porter, J. M. Thompson, D. Ferguson, D. Pethick and B. McIntyre 1415–1424

Meta-analysis of the published effects of HGP use on beef palatability in steers as measured by objective and sensory testing

Ray Watson 1425–1433

Effect of repeated implants of oestradiol-17 β on beef palatability in Brahman and Braham cross steers finished to different market end points

J. M. Thompson, R. Polkinghorne, M. Porter, H. M. Burrow, R. A. Hunter, G. J. McCrabb and R. Watson 1434–1441

Length of exposure to high post-rigor temperatures affects the tenderisation of the beef

M. longissimus dorsi

K. L. Thomson, G. E. Gardner, N. Simmons and J. M. Thompson 1442–1450

Development of a commercial system to apply the Meat Standards Australia grading model to optimise the return on eating quality in a beef supply chain

R. Polkinghorne, J. Philpott, A. Gee, A. Doljanin and J. Innes 1451–1458

Current usage and future development of the Meat Standards Australia (MSA) grading system

R. Polkinghorne, R. Watson, J. M. Thompson and D. W. Pethick 1459–1464

International perspective: characterisation of United States Department of Agriculture and Meat Standards Australia systems for assessing beef quality

G. C. Smith, J. D. Tatum and K. E. Belk 1465–1480
