

Australian Journal of Primary Health

CONTENTS Volume 16 • Issue 4 • 2010

EDITORIAL 275

PRACTICE & INNOVATION

Utilising implementation science in building research and evaluation capacity in community health

John Bamberg, Amaryll Perlesz, Peter McKenzie and Sharon Read 276

RESEARCH

Equity of access in the spatial distribution of GPs within an Australian metropolitan city

Leigh S. Roeger, Richard L. Reed and Bradley P. Smith 284

Primary oral health service provision in Aboriginal Medical Services-based dental clinics in Western Australia

Estie Kruger, Irosha Perera and Marc Tennant 291

Children and young people in out-of-home care: are GPs ready and willing to provide comprehensive health assessments for this vulnerable group?

Susan M. Webster and Meredith Temple-Smith 296

Nutrition in general practice: role and workforce preparation expectations of medical educators

Lauren E. Ball, Roger M. Hughes and Michael D. Leveritt 304

Engaging primary health care workers in drug and alcohol and mental health interventions: challenges for service delivery in rural and remote Australia

Julaine Allan 311

Program logic: a framework for health program design and evaluation – the Pap nurse in general practice program

Christine M. Hallinan 319

An integrated care facilitation model improves quality of life and reduces use of hospital resources by patients with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease and chronic heart failure

Stephen Bird, Michelle Noronha and Helen Sinnott 326

Top tips for embedding chronic condition self-management support into practice

Sharon Lawn 334

Who regulates food? Australians' perceptions of responsibility for food safety

Julie Henderson, John Coveney and Paul Ward 344

Less germs, less mucus, less snot: teachers' and health workers' perceptions of the benefits and barriers of ear health programs in lower primary school classes

June Doyle and Eli Ristevski 352