> SCOPE

Sexual Health publishes original and significant contributions to sexual and reproductive health research, including HIV, sexually transmissible infections, issues of sexuality and relevant areas of reproductive health. We use a broad definition of sexual health in line with the interim World Health Organization guidance. This journal is directed towards those working in sexual health as clinicians, public health practitioners, researchers, and advocates.

The journal publishes peer-reviewed original research, review articles, case reports, methodological papers and position statements. Authors with questions can discuss with one of our Editors-in-Chief.

JOURNAL METRICS

> METRICS

These metrics are shared as a way of quantifying the impact this journal has on the research community. However, they should always be considered in the context of how they are calculated, and we emphasise that none of these journal-level metrics should be used to judge the impact of an individual article or author, or their research outputs.
